Outlook

This year should be a year of continued improvement as the Lady Terps hope to regain the top twenty status that ha alluded them recently. Last year's young squad completed the season with a 17-13 record, a turn around from the previous year whe they finished 9-18. The highlight of the season came in the Women's Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament as the Terps brought home the conference title for the sixth time in nine years. Maryland, entering the tournament with a 14-12 record, was hoping for a good game with N.C. State in the first round. Instead, they got a great game, and a great victory over the Lady Wolfpack beating them hands down 77-55. Their dominance did not end that night but continued on throughout the entire tournament. The Terps crushed then third ranked Virginia 92-68 in the semifinals and proceeded to demolish the University of North Carolina 90-74 in the championship game. Winning the Tournament gave the Terps an automatic bid into the NCAA's where they faced Ohio State in the Second Round of the Mideast Regionals. Despite aggressive play, Maryland got into early foul trouble and Buckeye's Nikita Lowry put on a superb performance in front of her home crowd pouring in 26 points and grabbing 8 rebounds for their 87-71 victory over the Lady Terps.

Gone from last year's squad are Chequita Wood, Monica Gannon and Chris Vera. Wood became the third All-Time Leading Rebounder with 703 rebounds and the Fifth All-Time leading scorer with 1372 points. She was also named to the All-Tournament Team for her efforts in helping Maryland win the ACC Championship. Gannon, co-captain along with Wood last year, made the Atlantic Coast Honor Roll for the second time displaying her ability to excel not only on the court but in the classroom as well. Vera, a valuable play maker, had a career high of 11 assists last year against Clemson.

Eight letterwinners are returning from last season. Included in that number are Vicky Bullett, Carolin Dehn-Duhr and Lisa Brown. Bullett, a 6-3 sophomore, made the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament Team last year for her outstanding performance in Maryland's three game sweep. Bullett also played on the USA Women's Select Team that participated in the Canadian Invitational Tournament this past July. Carolin Dehn-Duhr, a 6-5 junior was named to the ACC Second Team. She also competed in the U.S. Olympic Sports Festival as a member of the East Squad. Deanna Tate, MVP of the ACC Tournament and member of the East Squad this past summer with Dehn-Duhr, will be sitting out this season in order to address her academic priorities. Junior Lisa Brown, who started in all 30 games last year as point guard will again add her quickness and depth to the team along with teammate Subrena Rivers, an all-around athlete who is a tremendous asset in the defense department.

To say that Maryland had a great recruiting year would almost be an understatement. Heading the list of incoming freshmen is Beth Hunt, considered by many including USA Today to be the the top girls' prep basketball player in the country. Hunt, a 6-1 forward was chosen in both junior and senior years as an All-American by USA Today, Street and Smith, Parade and Women's Basketball News. Hunt also made the Kodak and Converse Teams and was the only high school player to make the South Team th participated in the National Sports Festival her junior year. Hunt participated in the Olympic Sports Festival again this past summe playing on the South Team. A native of Socastee, South Carolina, she averaged 24.5 ppg and 12 rebounds her senior year.

Edna Campbell, another highly sought after recruit, has landed at Maryland. Campbell was chosen All-American by Street and Smith, USA Today and by Parade Magazine. The 5-8 guard from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania averaged 22.8 ppg and compiled a total of 1,227 career points while attending Allderdice High School. Campbell has also had the opportunity to play for the Sports Festival's East Team both junior and senior years.

Lynn Munday, perhaps not as well known as Campbell and Hunt, but according to Coach Weller "definitely has very refined basketball skills" was an Honorable Mention All-American and Second Team All-State. The 5-11 guard from Bellingham, Washington averaged 16 ppg and 7.5 rebounds along with averaging 4 assists and 3 steals per game her senior year.

Christy Winters, another outstanding recruit is from nearby Reston, Virginia. Winters, a 6-2 forward/center led her South Lakes high school team to their first-ever Virginia 3A State Championship. Named to the Washington Post's 85-86 Girls High School All-Metro selection both junior and senior years, Winters was also chosen as Girls High School Player of the Year by the Post. Averaging 22 ppg and 14 rebounds, Winters was a USA Today Girls Honorable Mention.

"This is one of the best recruiting years we've had and our team is full of potential," stated Head Coach Chris Weller. "We are going to be a very consistent, intense team, playing strong from the moment the clock starts." Weller added "we might not be pretty or fancy out there on the court, but no team will play as hard."

Head Coach

CHRIS WELLER

Chris Weller is entering her twelfth year as Head Coach of the Women's Basketball Team. Her 222-92 overall record speaks for itself, and among those 314 games, there have been eight post season tournament appearances, two final four berths and six ACC Championships. (The most recent one coming this past March.) Also ranked in the top ten 75 times, consecutive top ten rankings 29, total number of times ranked 130.

Some of Coach Weller's previous players have played on international teams ranging from Athletes in Action to Olympic Teams, and Weller currently has two players from Finland and Yugoslavia playing on her team for the second year in a row. Coach Weller's most recent accomplishment was coaching the USA 1986 Select Team that participated in the Canadian Invitational Tournament this past July.

Finishing sixth in the nation in 1978-79 Maryland's Women's Basketball team won the first Orange Bowl Women's Classic Tournament, their second ACC title and another trip to the AIAW National Championship Tournament. They were ranked sixth in '79-80 winning the EAIAW regional crown, and progressing to the AIAW quarter finals. With their "centerless" squad of '80-81 the Terrapins won their third ACC title and progressed to the Quarterfinals of the National Tournament for the fourth consecutive season and were ranked 8th in the nation. 1981-82 brought the Terrapins' fifth 20+ victory season (25-7), their second Orange Bowl Classic Title, a Championship title at the Syracuse tournament, a fourth ACC Title, an NCAA West Regional Crown, a first ever appearance in the NCAA Final Four and a third place national finish. Season championships at Drake Harvest Classic and the Syracuse Classic preceded the school's 5th ACC Title in '82-83 finishing ranked 6th nationally. In 1983-84 Coach Chris Weller started the rebuilding of the Terrapins while still maintaining their position in the top 20 national rankings. The team once again made it to the NCAA Tournament and finished ranked 17th in the nation.

Weller is a member of the Maryland Class of '66. She played four years of varsity basketball, serving as team captain on two of them. In addition to basketball, Weller was on the swim team for two years and played on the school's first women's lacrosse squad. Following graduation she taught physical education for seven years at nearby John F. Kennedy School in Silver Spring, Maryland. As a teacher she coached basketball, track, tennis and lacrosse.

Weller returned to Maryland in 1973 and became assistant basketball coach and working with the Junior Varsity program. In 1975 she took over the varsity program and in 1976 was appointed Assistant Athletic Director for Women's Sports, a position she held until 1980. In those four years, Coach Weller was instrumental in building one of the finest women's athletic programs in the nation.

Weller was voted Kodak District III Coach of the Year in 1983. In 1985 she was appointed to the U.S. Olympic Committee and served as the assistant coach for the U.S. National Jones Cup Team that won the gold medal in Taiwan in July of '85. She has also served on committees such as the Kodak All-American Committee and the EAIAW Basketball Committee.

For the past seven summers Coach Weller has run a basketball camp for girls helping to encourage the growth of interest in women's basketball. Weller is also a popular speaker at coaching clinics having developed a reputation of being one of the top technicians of the game.

Led by its flagship campus at College Park, the University of Maryland is the state's land grant institution located on five major campuses that reach out to university students worldwide.

With some 87,838 students, more than 4,000 full-time faculty, and over 400 major programs of study, the university ranks among the top 20 public research universities in the country. Six programs at College Park (computer science, math, physics, art history, economics, and electrical engineering) are ranked among the top 10.

The 1,378 acre College Park campus, encompassing 10 professional colleges and schools, offers 125 programs of study for undergraduates. Preprofessional education is offered in 13 fields; the graduate student may choose among 80 academic areas.

Close to 30,000 undergraduates, including an increasing number of Merit Scholars and recipients of Banneker Scholarships for black students, and 8,000 graduates avail themselves of such research facilities as: scanning electron microscopes; subsonic and supersonic wind tunnels; an electron ring accelerator; a gravitational radiation detection system including a gravimeter on the moon; a criminal forensics laboratory; and a laboratory for plasma and fusion energy studies. To serve both students and faculty, the McKeldin and Hornbake libraries together with a number of specialty libraries provide materials covering all fields of modern and ancient research.

The Baltimore City campus in downtown Baltimore consists of the Schools of Dentistry, Law, Medicine, Nursing, Pharmacy, Social Work and Community Planning, as well as an inter-professional graduate school, a 785 bed Hospital, and the Institute for Emergency Medical Services. The University of Maryland Medical Systems/Hospital includes the Shock Trauma Center, the Cancer Center, and other health related institutes serving the community and the state.

UMBC, the modern 476-acre Baltimore County campus, opened in 1966. Offering the traditional arts, humanities, and sciences curricula, UMBC also has new programs in computer science, engineering, nursing, and information systems management. Graduate degrees are offered in 20 fields, including marine biology and policy sciences.

The Eastern Shore campus, located in historic Princess Anne, offers a full range of curricula in the arts and sciences, agriculture, and business fields. Research and public-service organizations on the 536-acre campus include the Cooperative Extension Service, Hospitality Resources Center, Institute for Eastern Shore Studies, and Soybean Research Institute.

University College, with close to 12,000 students stateside and over 24,000 overseas, is one of the country's leading centers for lifelong learning. The European and Asian Divisions of University College bring degree programs to U.S. military and government-affiliated personnel and their families in some 15 foreign countries.

Other major components of the university are the Center for Environmental and Estuarine Studies, where research and public service projects deal with the biology and ecology of Maryland and the Chesapeake Bay; the Cooperative Extension Service which provides statewide service on agriculture, home economics, and ways to improve living conditions; and the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station carrying on a university-wide program of research in agriculture and related areas. In addition to these centers, the U.S. Department of Commerce has designated Maryland as a Sea Grant College in recognition of the quality of its work related to the Chesapeake Bay.

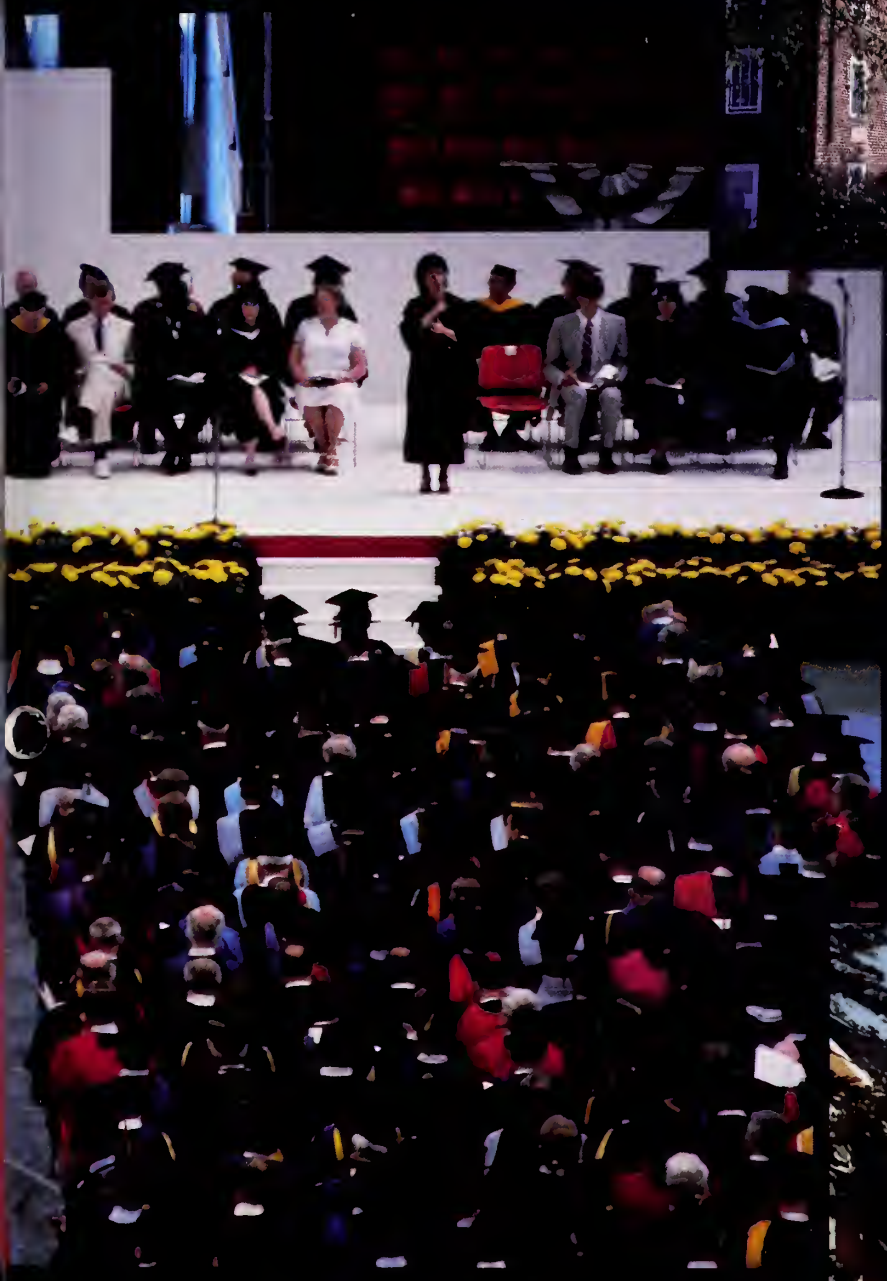
COLLEGE PARK CAMPUS



WHERE IT HAPPENS

Located near big cities, small towns, intellectual resources and beautiful countryside, The University of Maryland offers the best of both worlds.

While located only nine miles from our nation's Capital, College Park is still able to maintain its small town charm, with quick access to not only Washington, D.C. but Baltimore and Annapolis. This 40-mile corridor between Washington and Baltimore is one of the richest concentrations of resources and intellectual leadership in the world and the University of Maryland is in the center of it all. As a student you have easy access to many of the country's best research facilities such as the Library of Congress, the Shakespeare Library, the National Library of Medicine and the Department of Agriculture facilities.

In addition to the scholarly pursuits there are many cultural and entertaining opportunities near by from the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts with its concert hall and opera house, the National Theater, to the Smithsonian Institute with their many museums. Washington has a lot to offer. Washington is also the home of the National Symphony Orchestra and headquarters of the American Film Institute. Twenty minutes from campus is the Capital Centre, a modern sports and concert arena and home of the Washington Capitals and the Washington Bullets.

One of the great ports of the world, Baltimore, 35 minutes away, has undergone a recent and remarkable revitalization. Baltimore's Inner Harbor now glistens with new office towers, quaint shops and ethnic restaurants representing its many colorful neighborhoods. James Rouse's Harbor Place mall and the new National Aquarium anchor the Inner Harbor and have transformed it into a cultural magnet that each year attracts thousands of tourists.

The University of Maryland is surrounded by history not only by the well-known sites of Washington and Baltimore but within the beautiful countryside of Montgomery and Prince George's counties. Annapolis the capital of Maryland has a charm of its own with its cobblestone roads and sailing ports.

The area of Washington to Baltimore produces a corridor of exceptional opportunities; however, College Park's relationship with it is not one of just proximity. Hands-on experience is available to undergraduates at some of the country's most prominent agencies and institutions from NASA and the Smithsonian to Congress itself. Because of its unique location, the University of Maryland at College Park is also able to draw Nobel Prize winners, cabinet members and internationally renowned scientists, artists and writers who regularly visit the campus to share their knowledge with students.

International Players

Over the years, the University of Maryland Women's Basketball Team has fielded several talented ball players, some of whom have crossed the U.S. boundaries into international competition. These chosen players often experience extreme pressure, not just in actual game situations but in the team tryouts as well. Long hours are spent working on developing the athletic skills that set that one athlete apart from the rest, and recognizes them among the best in the world. Ever since Chris Weller has headed up the Women's basketball program, as early as her second year, she has had players selected for these select teams, touring the world. Below are Maryland's contributions to the national and international field of women's basketball.

Cole Field House

The athletic facilities at Maryland University are among the finest in the nation.

Cole Field House, center of the Terrapin Athletic program, is home of the women's basketball team. Built in 1955, it is one of the most famous landmarks on campus. One of the largest facilities on the east coast, the 14,500 seat arena is a prime site for national and international competition.

Dr. John S. Toll

President

As president of a major research University with five campuses and 88,400 students worldwide, John S. Toll is dedicated to strengthening excellence in teaching, research, and public service. Under his leadership, the University has developed programs of high quality, has attracted outstanding faculty and students, and has built partnerships with industry, government, schools and other institutions.

In the past few years, milestones in the University's progress have included two Pulitzer Prizes for faculty members and important developments in medical research and treatment, in biotechnology, and in many other areas.

John Toll graduated from Yale with highest honors and earned his advanced degrees in physics at Princeton. During his distinguished career as a theoretical physicist and educator, for 12 years he chaired the physics department at the College Park campus and led it to national prominence. He then served as president of the State University of New York at Stony Brook from 1965 to 1978, when he returned to Maryland to become the University's 22nd president. An avid jogger and tennis player, Dr. Toll and his wife Deborah have two daughters.

Dr. John Brooks Slaughter

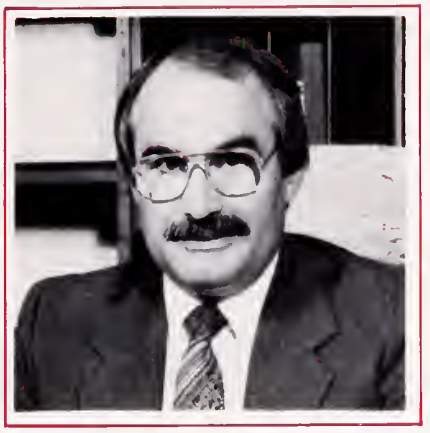
Chancellor

John Brooks Slaughter, the third Chancellor of the College Park Campus, is a distinguished scientist and a dedicated humanitarian as well as an able administrator. His research specialities are in the fields of electrical engineering and computer systems. His accomplishments in these fields have brought him high recognition. He is a Fellow in the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers and the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He holds membership in the National Academy of Engineering, was selected U.C.L.A. Engineering Alumnus of the Year (1978), received the Distinguished Service Award from the National Science Foundation (1979), and was recognized for Distinguished Service in Engineering by Kansas State University (1981).

Prior to assuming his responsibilities at the University of Maryland he served as Academic Vice President and Provost at Washington State University and as Director of the National Science Foundation. In his inauguration address to the College Park campus on May 3, 1983, he set the course for his administration: "I want to see this campus continue its vigorous pursuit of academic excellence while reaching out to a more diversified student body. I want the University of Maryland at College Park to set a national standard for excellence and equality. As we pursue these goals, we must also enhance our contributions to the State. Finally, I am committed to a university that is a community, a community that takes pride in itself and touches each person involved in the campus with pride."

Charles F. Sturtz

Acting Athletic Director



In appointing vice chancellor Charles F. Sturtz as acting director of athletics on October 7, 1986, University of Maryland Chancellor John B. Slaughter established an immediate foundation of administrative excellence—and a commitment to the future of athletic/academic prosperity—within one of the university's more viable and visible departments.

Sturtz, 50, officially assumed the position November 2, 1986, succeeding Richard M. (Dick) Dull. He will hold all responsibilities as vice chancellor during his athletic directorship, until a permanent successor to Dull is appointed. A national search will be conducted by a committee to be appointed by Dr. Slaughter.

Until then, consider the department to be in extremely capable hands. A man with an extensive background in administrative and financial management, Sturtz' prowess in such affairs has received substantial acclaim. As vice chancellor in charge of administrative affairs at Maryland, Sturtz enhanced his reputation as a top-level supervisor by successfully overseeing a budget that reached $60 million in 1986, a budget encompassing more than a dozen departments and 1,100 employees.

Quite simply, Sturtz' credentials discount the proclivity that athletic directors—even those on a temporary basis—must evolve from athletic backgrounds. "My task (as AD) is straightforward," he says. "It is my responsibility to examine the areas of departmental operation, and to determine with the assistance of my associates if the department is effectively managed and administered. I believe it my task to set the program on proper course, and to establish operating procedures that will keep it that way."

Sturtz' theories for administrative management are based upon a steadfast commitment to well-defined purposes, and to see that the department has a definitive mission to state-of-practice technology. In instigating the use of computers, word processors and other high-tech apparatuses within many university departments, Sturtz seeks a previously unmatched level of efficiency in administrative operations. Among other things, Sturtz hopes to use that technology to usher in a new era of Maryland Athletics. "In terms of advanced technology, we need it here," he says from his new office. "We need to dedicate ourselves to improvement. An institution that wants to be among the best in its academic disciplines must continue to make technological progression in the administrative process."

Sturtz' responsibilities since assuming the duties of vice chancellor (administrative affairs) on October 24, 1982 are as expansive as they are crucial. A nationally recognized innovator in the field of administrative management, it was his ability to define programs using creative mechanisms which has enabled the construction of new dormitories, parking, and research financing. At Sturtz' insistence, the university has taken steps toward an advanced telecommunications system, involving not only word processing and computing but a telephone system replacement project as well.

It was Sturtz' polished record as a top-level administrator—and the innovative procedures he used to achieve such a status—that influenced Dr. Slaughter's choice to revamp the athletic program. "We had discussed several aspects of intercollegiate athletics," he says, "and he (Slaughter) popped the question of whether I'd be interested in assuming the responsibilities of interim athletic director. While I obviously had no previous experience in the field, I was confident that I had the necessary skills and experiences to direct the department on an interim basis."

As temporary AD, Sturtz' top priorities include:

— Conducting a review of the department's financial status.
— Strengthening the department's managerial structure.
— Facilitating a review of the academic task force recommendations.
— Establishing a secure foundation for the new athletic director. "He should be able to step right in and go," Sturtz says.

Born August 26, 1936, in Bucyrus, Ohio, Charles. F. Sturtz earned a Bachelor's Degree in Political Science, Business and Economics from Wittenberg University (Springfield, OH) in 1958. In 1961, he received a Master's Degree in Public Administration from Wayne State University, and has completed the course work for his Ph.D. since arriving at Maryland in 1982.

In 1964, Sturtz accepted employment with the Michigan State Government as a budget analyst. Two years later, he became chief for educational programs. He became director of Michigan's budget division in 1970, and was elevated to assistant director of the Department of Management and Budget in 1974. A director at the age of 34, Sturtz admits he might have become a bit restless after 10 years. "I was at the top of the organization," he says, "and I couldn't imagine myself as serving as budget director for 30 years."

Possessing an interest in public administration and a background in educational funding, Sturtz accepted employment at Wayne State as Vice President for Business and Finance in 1975. He would assume several upper-level titles and a myriad of administrative responsibilities during his seven years at WSU, including Treasurer, Senior Vice President for Administration and Finance and Executive Vice President. His financial ingenuity and foresight earned him rave reviews: Enlistment in the current "Who's Who in the East" after inclusion in "Who's Who in the Midwest" from 1980-82; selection as one of the Outstanding Young Men in America in 1971; and recognition by the Michigan State Legislature for outstanding service to the citizens of that state in 1982. "I've been very fortunate in that I've been recognized for some of the things I've accomplished," he says. "In terms of single contributions, I think the sum of my work experience has been what has received recognition."

A no-nonsense administrator who admits he "doesn't like surprises," Sturtz enjoys camping, gardening, spy and historic novels, golf and softball in his spare time. He is married to the former Judith Flook and has five children: Michael, 25, a graduate of Western Michigan (Printing Management); Mark, 23, a graduate of Michigan State (Business Administration); Matthew, 22, a graduate of Western Michigan who plans to enter Law School next fall; Chris, 17, a student at nearby Springbrook High; and Karen, 15, also a student at Springbrook.
